

SPECIAL SCREENING OF The Apology

The apology to the Stolen Generations by the Australian Parliament on 13 February 2008 was a powerful and memorable moment in the nation's history, for Indigenous and non-Indigenous people alike.

Saying sorry cleared the air, inspiring Australians to believe we really can build the kind of respectful relationships needed for positive, long term outcomes.

National Reconciliation Week is the perfect time to revisit that famous day at a screening of a new 30-minute documentary called The Apology.

The film includes interviews, stories and many special moments including the first Welcome to Country in the Federal Parliament. It captures the anticipation on a thousand faces as Prime Minister Kevin Rudd delivers the apology, followed by the spontaneous outpouring of emotion all around the country.

Jack Thompson's narration, Shelley Reys' thoughtful commentary and the music of Powderfinger, Silverchair, John Butler, Missy Higgins and the Stiff Gins all help make this film a truly uplifting experience.

Produced for Reconciliation Australia by Indigenous Film Services, The Apology reinforces our feelings of hope and determination for reconciliation.
